The Principality of Jos Visser is a huge, safe nation, renowned for its punitive income tax rates. Its hard-nosed, hard-working population of 622 million have some civil rights, but not too many, enjoy the freedom to spend their money however they like, to a point, and take part in free and open elections, although not too often.

It is difficult to tell where the omnipresent government stops and the rest of society begins, but it juggles the competing demands of Law & Order, Defence, and Education. The average income tax rate is 100%. The private sector is almost wholly made up of enterprising fourteen-year-old boys selling lemonade on the sidewalk, although the government is looking at stamping this out.

Guns are banned, expensive lawyers are hired to defend citizens in court for public urination charges against their pets, skateparks can be found in every city, and protests are legal but strictly supervised. Crime is totally unknown, thanks to the all-pervasive police force and progressive social policies in education and welfare. Jos Visser's national animal is the koala, which frolics freely in the nation's many lush forests, and its currency is the solar.

Jos Visser is ranked 10th in the region and 10,950th in the world for Nudest.
